Planning Board Report On Shirley Court Housing Accepted by Boro Council

Borough Council has voted unanimously to accept the Regional Planning Board's report declaring Shirley Court blighted and four other proposed affordable housing sites as areas in need of rehabilitation.

The Council vote brings the Borough one step closer to its goal: floating a short-term bond by September 1 through the Mercer County Improvement Authority (MCIA) to finance the $5.7 million housing project.

On the same day Council acted, the Home Finance Division of the State Department of Cummunity Affairs informed the Borough that it approved MCIA's floating of the bond, provided the Borough accepted the Planning Board's report.

Many in the audience of about 40 persons commented on the program, which would provide 72 units of low, moderate and middle income housing. The units, resembling two-and-a-half story attached townhouses, would be constructed at two sites at John and Clay Street, the Maclean Street parking lot, the open space on Hamilton Avenue across from Westminster Choir College, and Shirley Court (rehabilitation of present structures).

The first to speak was Thomas Olson, lawyer for Paul Harvey. Mr. Harvey is coowner, with Benjamin Kahn, of Shirley Court.

The Morristown attorney asked Council not to take fast action and to balance the right of property owners to be heard. "If Shirley Court is declared blighted," he said, "the owners can have the property taken through condemnation."

Although offered the opportunity to make his case to Borough Council, Mr. Olson insisted that he would speak on-

Loop Bus Coming Back For 60-Day Trial Run

Princeton Area Transport (PAT) will begin a 60-day experimental run of the loop bus beginning Friday, August 15. The bus will run on a reduced schedule of three loops a day. Routes will begin at Elm Court at 9:15 a.m., 11:50 p.m., and 3:45 p.m. (See box on Page 4 for the complete schedule).

PAT had taken over loop service from New Jersey Transit in the fall. It stopped the line in April because it was suffering a $2,000 loss per month. About 80 passengers a day had been riding the bus.

After the service ended, a number of residents of the John-Witherspoon area and Redding Circle signed petitions requesting that it begin again. Residents of the Witherspoon area, particularly, were left without any public transportation

Police and Black Community Plan Meeting Seeking to Clear Up Differences Between Them

A three-hour meeting Friday at Borough Hall to discuss differences between the Borough police and the black community has resulted in the promise of a general meeting between the police and residents. The meeting, which will be held in one of the churches in the John-Witherspoon neighborhood, will be arranged by the Rev. Michael Nabors, pastor of the First Baptist Church. No date has yet been set.

The session at Borough Hall came after published allegations by blacks in Princeton that they are treated differently than whites by the Borough police. A major complaint was that they are stopped by police for unexplained reasons.

The meeting at the church will discuss the differing perceptions held by blacks and police in regard to treatment, explain police procedures, and ask for feedback from the community.

In addition to this general meeting, the police have agreed to schedule regular and consistent visits to church youth groups. Police leadership has promised to attempt to set up sensitivity training sessions and to try to reinstate structured workshops on black-police relations.

And, finally, Borough Police Chief Michael Carnevale said he would reinstate individual squad meetings in September to inculcate proper attitudes internally within the department.

Attending the meeting were Mayor Barbara Sigmund, the Rev. Michael Nabors, pastor of of First Baptist Church; the Rev. David Cousins, pastor of Mt. Pisgah AME Church; Police Chief Carnevale; Capt. Thomas Michaud; Police Commissioner Irv Urken; Max Blumenfeld of the Joint Civil Rights Commission; and Borough Clerk Penny Carter, acting as affirmative action officer. The Rev. Adrian McFarlane of Witherspoon Presbyeterian Church was out of the country on vacation.

After the Friday meeting, Rev. Nabors said the session provided a lot of insight and was very productive. "Some suggestions were made that will help relieve stress between the department and the made Tuesday afternoon by Secretary of State Jane Burgio and is effective August 1, the day the present lease to the New Jersey Historical Society expires. The Society decided formally in May that it would no longer operate the historic mansion, which it had leased from the state since 1982 as a branch of its Newark-based operation.

According to the formal announcement, the Department of State will "assume all administrative and proprietary responsibility for the property and grounds," effective August 1. This is a departure from present policy, in that Morven, as an historic site, has been administered by the Department of Environmental Protection from the time it was given to the state in 1954 by the late former Governor Walter Edge.

The announcement goes on to say that "in recognition of the special role Morven has played in the history of the state, the Borough of Princeton and the nation," the black community," he said. "The police department has taken some initiative in helping relieve problems, just as the black community has taken initiatives."

Chief Carnevale said he was in total agreement with the recommendations that resulted from the meeting. "I suspect it might take more than one meeting," he said, "and I'm prepared to meet frequently."

Asked whether he felt black complaints about the department were justified, he said that there was not a serious problem. "However, I deem anything serious that could focus attention on the police department with respect to black community/police relations."

He added that the problem was complex and that many blacks perceive not only the police as acting improperly on occasion but feel the same of merchants, whom they believe look upon them as potential shoplifters.

"There's the situation on campus, too," he noted, "with returning alumni who see black students and treat them as if they were workers. It's a problem that affects the entire society."

The Borough Police Department presently has one black and two Princeton residents out of a force of 30. Chief Carnevale, who said he has been trying to add minorities to the force since 1970, stated that having more blacks or Princeton residents would not be a cure-all for better police/community relations, "but it wouldn't hurt."

It has been extremely frustrating to have been unsuccessful in recruiting blacks, said the chief. He added that it has been very difficult both here and nationally to get minorities interested in a career on the force.

He said he has gone out to the community and contacted minority young men who were qualified to apply, but has met with little success. "If there is more of a pool of minorities taking the exam, the chances increase for having a good number who qualify," said Chief Carnevale.

Department will begin assembling a broad-based coalition of concerned New Jersey and American citizens to begin the process of "tastefully maintaining and restoring New Jersey's most prominent home."

In the announcement, State Commissioner Burgio pointed out that the Department of State has sufficient trained personnel and the materials necessary to transform the building into the kind of museum that would fulfill the letter of deed with which former Governor Edge bequeathed Morven to the state. She spoke of the "friends, docents, volunteers and active network of contacts and goodwill" which the N.J. State Museum can bring into play.

Assistant Secretary of State Al Felzenberg is expected to work closely with Leah Schlossberg, director of the N.J. State Museum, on the project.

State Monies Promised Toward Bridge Arches

State Transportation Commissioner Hazel F. Gluck has indicated a willingness to contribute up to $25,000 for the "haunched girders" that will give the Harrison Street Bridge more arching than was originally proposed.

In a letter to Township Mayor Gail Firestone, Commissioner Gluck says that her offer is contingent upon the successful appropriation of all other monies by the various county and municipal factions by no later than August 31.

Township Committee agreed to appropriate $50,000 toward the $150,000 needed for four-foot arches; Borough Council passed a similar resolution for $30,000; Princeton University promised $10,000, and the Mercer County Executive Bill Mathesius is pledged to recommend that the Freeholders appropriate $35,000. That comes to $125,000 — $25,000 short of the total needed.

Commissioner Gluck said the difference would be taken from the Transportation Trust Discretionary Funds. She warned that if the successful appropriation of all the other amounts is not achieved by August 31, the Department will go forward with the original design of two-foot arches.

She also points out that lack of consensus on the design has cost a full construction season. The design will take approximately one calendar year, and the construction one construction season.

"The best estimate we have is that the design will be complete in the late summer/early fall of 1987 and will require the better part of the 1988 construction season to complete," she writes, adding that she is pointing this out so that there will be no confusion "down the line" about when the Harrison Street Bridge will actually be opened to traffic.

"The bridge that is being designed is an attractive bridge that will serve Princeton residents and visitors well. It is most of all a sofe structure, and a reasonable compromise between what the Department originally proposed and what the Township preferred."

The new bridge will have a sidewalk, which the present one lacks; the lanes will be increased to 12 feet from the existing 8½ feet; and there will be 3-foot shoulders on each side where none presently exist. Openwork railings should soften the structure's visual impact.

In addition the girders will be painted to blend with the surroundings and concrete will be textured.

Elizabethtown Water Co. Requests a Rate Hike

Elizabethtown Water Company petitioned the New Jersey Board of Public Utilities (BPU) for new water rates that would add $9.4 million to its revenues and about $2 per month to the average residential customer's water bill beginning in the first quarter of 1987.

According to Elizabethtown executive vice president Chester A. Ring, the rate increase will be primarily used to cover construction costs incurred since current rates were established. The increase will also cover higher labor costs and insurance costs.

The rates will not go into effect until after a review by the BPU and the Department of Public Advocate.

NEW LAYOUT FOR PCH HOUSING PROJECT: In the center is a landscaped oval commons. New PCH Plans Ready For Concept Review

Princeton Community Housing (PCH) will present a new layout for its Peterson tract proposal for concept review by the Planning Board on Tuesday, August 5. Planning Board meetings begin at 7:30 in the meeting room of the Valley Road building, Witherspoon Street entrance.

Architect Robert Geddes will be on hand to explain the new layout for 280 residential units on the 26½-acre tract between Route 206 and Cherry Valley Road. The new layout, with a mix of two-story townhouses and three-story apartments, supersedes an earlier conceptual version rendered by the Wallace Roberts & Todd firm and presented in February. PCH is developing the RH (residential high density) site for the Township under the provisions of its Mt. Laurel affordable housing ordinance.

One half the 280 units will be sold at market, generating a subsidy to cover the cost of the other 140, which will be reserved for low and moderate income individuals and families. Of the market units, 60 will be two bedroom townhouses of 1,120 square feet each and 80 will be three bedroom townhouses at 1,280 square feet.

The low and moderate income units will consist of 70 one-bedroom flats of 615 square feet, 46 two-bedroom flats at 785 square feet and 24 three-bedroom townhouses of 1,120 square feet, according to plans filed with the Planning Board. The building density is 10.5 units an acre, a drop in the permitted RH density of 12 units an acre, which would have yielded 318 units in all.

Modular Concept. Each 20-foot wide townhouse will have a private backyard garden. Each also has an entry garden and parking for one car in front, with provision for a second car at the larger units. Each house has a street tree along the sidewalk.

and were forced to take cabs to such places as supermarkets and doctors' offices.

Greg Coin, general manager of PAT, said he had received a number of calls from senior citizens throughout Princeton asking for help. He said he was able to restructure some service outside of town and create time for the three runs. "We can now resume at a reduced rate; it won't cost as much because the drivers will be on call anyway."

Mr Coin said he was hoping that one of two things might happen. "We would either get enough people to pay for the service; or those using the service would be able to convince the business community or New Jersey Transit to help with financing."

The experimental project will be reviewed on October 15 to determine if it will be continued.

John St. Man Is Jailed For Child Sex Assaults

A 27-year-old John Street resident, a refugee from El Salvador who is seeking political asylum in this country, has been charged by Borough and Township police with the sexual assault of three Princeton children.

Luis Enrique Cruz of 263 John Street is being held in Mercer County Jail in $100,000 cash bail since his arraignment Thursday before Superior Court Judge A. Jerome Moore. He was arrested last Monday after parents of the victims notified police at 11:45 the previous evening. Cruz, a part-time landscaper and painter, who has also worked in a motel, was described by both Borough and Township police, as a friend who was known by the parents of the victims.

Borough police have charged Cruz with two counts of sexual assault. He is alleged to have made sexual contact with a seven-year-old girl between 5 and 8 p.m. last Saturday at the rear of the home of the victim's parents on property between Witherspoon and John Streets. He allegedly removed the girl's clothing but did not injure her.

The following day Cruz is alleged to have accompanied a nine-year-old Borough boy between 3 and 5 p.m. to a wooded area that borders Merwick, a unit operated by the Princeton Medical Center off Bayard Lane, where he again committed an act of sexual contact by fondling the youth.

In each instance, said Capt. Thomas Michaud of the Borough, Cruz used a story to lure the victims to the area. In one, it was a story to see the rabbits; in another it was something else.

Police were aided in the investigation by workers from the Division of Youth and Family Services who were used as interpretors because the parents of the victim speak Spanish.

The statute under which Cruz was charged states that a person is guilty of sexual assault if he commits an act of sexual contact with a victim less than 13 years old.

"They key words here are 'sexual contact' " said Chief Michael Carnevale.

One in the Township. In the Township, Cruz has been charged by police with one count of aggravated sexual assault, a more serious offense. He is alleged to have taken a group of six children, aged five to nine, on a bicycle ride to Community Park North on Sunday between 5 and 7 in the evening, where he allegedly separated a seven-year-old girl from the group and sexually assaulted her.

"The kids went willingly because he was known to the families as an acquaintance," said Det. Renn Kaminski. "But he did take them without the parents' permission." Later, on Sunday night, the victims told their parents what had happened, triggering a joint investigation by the police.

Det. Kaminski reported that a possible second charge from Township police involving an incident at Community Park against Cruz is pending.

Det. Kaminski, the Township's juvenile officer, who worked on the case with Lt. Samuel Bianco and Det. David A. Funk and with Det. James Agins of the Borough, reported that a similar charge of aggravated sexual assault against Cruz in February involving a six-year-old girl is pending in Newark but the case has not gone to trial.

Fighting Deportation. Cruz arrived in this country about a year ago, according to Det. Kaminski, and does not speak English well. He has, he said, deportation proceedings pending against him.

A member of the Prioceton Refugee Project, which was started by the Friends Society of Princeton and retains close ties with the Friends but is independent of the group, describes Cruz as a refugee applicant for political asylum in this country. "If that application is ultimately denied, then he will be subject to deportation."

A spokesman for the Refugee Project, which has been helping Cruz obtain jobs and with his application, said that the agency was "upset by this terrible thing." He expressed the hope that the ability to help refugees would not be overly tarnished by the incident.

The group, he said, has worked with many other refugees in the past and has succeeded in legally relocating four in Canada. A fifth application is pending.

"Nothing like this has happened before," he said, adding that he was fearful that "people might judge all refugees on the basis of this."

Borough Will Appeal Tax Exemption Ruling

Princeton Borough will appeal a state Tax Court ruling that grants tax exemption for two Mercer Street houses owned by Princeton Theological Seminary.

The papers will be filed this week with the Appellate Division of the state Supreme Court.

The Borough decided last week to appeal the ruling, which would decrease taxable property. Forty-two percent of Borough property is already tax-exempt according to Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund.

She has observed that the ruling could potentially remove over $33 million worth of additional property from the tax rolls. Princeton University pays taxes on off-campus residential property valued at $30.3 million and the Seminary pays taxes on $2.6 million in residential property.

The case was originally brought to court by the Seminary when it purchased the properties and was denied tax exemption by the Borough. The seminary won the appeal and the court ruled that the houses were exempt due to their educational use.

The Borough must return $9,657 paid by the Seminary in 1985 taxes and all 1986 taxes collected. The seminary would have paid taxes of over $11,000 on the properties this year.

Located at 91 and 93 Mercer Street, the houses are the residences of a Seminary faculty member and its director of public relations. They are each assessed at over $400,000.

Suspect Is Arrested After Fleeing Home

A 28-year-old suspect was apprehended last week on Library Place and Cleveland Lane, shortly after he had fled from the inside of a Cleveland Lane home.

Police identified him as William E. Starks. He has been charged with burglary and possession of a weapon after police found a knife in his pants pocket. Bail was set at $10,000 and Starks was later turned over to the Mercer County Sheriff's Office, when a national computer check revealed he was wanted by that department on a warrant for failure to appear in court on a possession of a controlled dangerous substance charge.

Police commented that one report lists a Lytle Street address for Starks while another lists no known address.

Ptl. Kenneth Lozier and Ptl. Willian Nathan responded in two patrol cars to a 1:23 call Saturday morning from a Cleveland Lane resident who reported a black male wearing a blue shirt inside her home. Ptl. Nathan saw a suspect fitting the description emerge from shrubbery in front of the home and he was soon apprehended. He was identified by the victim as the one inside her house.

The victim told police that she was watching television in a downstairs room located off a rear foyer when she looked up and saw a black male peering into the room. She got up and immediately called the police.

Pedestrian Assaulted Near Harrison Bridge

A 27-year-old Butler Avenue resident was assaulted last week while walking with her baby toward the Harrison Street Bridge.

As she walking around 4:30 in the afternoon, she told police, she noticed a heavy-set, six-foot white male wearing blue jeans and a dark blue crewneck shirt duck into some bushes near the area of the bridge.

She had decided to turn around and head home, she continued, when she felt a hand grab her around the mouth. Police said the victim screamed and managed to break free from her assailant.

The suspect disappeared on Lake Lane near the lake.

The victim was unable to provide any further identification to police, who report they have no suspects. The investigation into the incident is being continued by the Township detective bureau.

Classical Tapes Stolen From Parked Hatchback

A cassette case containing a dozen classical tapes valued at $130 was stolen last week from the car of a Freehold resident while it was parked during the day in a lot at 1000 Herrontown Road. The victim told police that while the doors to her 1983 Toyota were locked, she couldn't remember if the hatchback was.

A Trenton resident listed the theft of a $170 radar detector from her locked car while it had been parked for three hours at the Princeton Packet lot, 300 Witherspoon Street. A speaker cover on the left door had also been cracked but police report no sign of forced entry.

In the Borough, a Princeton Graduate School student reported the theft of a backpack from his unlocked car parked Sunday evening between 8 and 8:15 in a William Street lot. The pack contained athletic equipment, including softballs, baseball glove and sneakers worth a combined $171.

During a four-day period last week, someone entered an unlocked van parked on Edwards Place and removed $3 in change from a change holder in

Why you should take the SAT course ETS fears

1) Because our score improvements are 150 points on average (by comparison, the FTC states Stanley H. Kaplan's students improve an average of 48.9 points).

2) Because our classes range in size from 8-10 students, grouped very closely by ability.

3) Because all tests, quizzes, and homeworks that our students take are scored by the most sophisticated computer analysis currently in use.

4) Because when a student doesn't understand a concept, we work with him in small groups (under 10) and tutor him one-on-one, rather than plunk him down at an audio cassette machine.

5) Because our teachers are recent graduates of top Ivy League schools. They don't just teach the SAT, they've excelled themselves.

6) Because we drive ETS (Educational Testing Service, the people who write the SAT) absolutely wild. Anyone who can upset them so much must be doing something right.

the glove compartment. The owner is a resident of Edwards Place.

Between 10 and 10:30 Thursday evening, someone removed a dealer's license plate from a 1984 Volvo parked on Prospect Avenue and owned by Princeton Volvo.

A computer surge suppressor valued at $50 was stolen last week from a locked study booth in Firestone Library on the university campus. It is owned by a Princeton resident.

Bakery Is Entered By Unknown Method

Someone entered the Princeton Bakery in the Princeton Shopping Center by an unknown method during the weekend and stole $70 from a cash register and $80 from a bank pouch in a separate drawer.

Police believe the intruder may have used a key to enter the building between 6:30 Friday evening and 2:40 the next morning, as there were no signs of forced entry.

Last week, a thief pried open an outside door to the Community Park concession stand and once inside took $125 from a cash register. The stand is operated by the Princeton Recreation Department.

A first-floor bedroom window of a Linden Lane home was pried open overnight last week by an intruder who made off with two watches valued at $80 and a 14K gold necklace of unknown value. Police report the intruder then exited the house from the same window.

Borough police report that an employee of Larry's Sunoco service station on Nassau Street last week failed to make a $380 cash deposit.

"Neither he nor the deposit has been seen since that date," commented Chief Michael Carnevale. Police, he said, have the name of the employee, "but at this stage of the investigation I feel it is not appropriate to release it."

Princeton University Settles with Sally Frank

Princeton University has agreed to an out-of-court settlement with 1980 graduate Sally Frank, who had sued the University and three eating clubs on charges of sex discrimination. The settlement will dismiss charges against the University of "aiding and abetting" such discrimination.

In addition to agreeing to pay $27,500 for legal and other expenses to Miss Frank and her co-counsel, Nadine Taub, the University agreed to disassociate itself from the two remaining all-male clubs and to cease all support of the clubs, Tiger Inn and Ivy Club.

Ms. Frank, a lawyer and clinical fellow at Antioch Law School in Washington, filed a complaint in 1979 with the New Jersey Division on Civil Rights against Cottage Club, Tiger Inn, Ivy Club, and the University after she had been refused admission to the clubs. Cottage Club settled with Ms. Frank in December and admitted female members in February.

In June, Administrative Law Judge Robert Miller found Ivy Club and Tiger Inn guilty of discriminating against women. In a hearing scheduled to begin this week, Judge Miller will consider penalties against the clubs. His decision would come in the form of a recommendation to state civil rights officials.

3 Issued Summonses For Passing Checks

Three Princeton area residents have received complaint summonses for allegedly passing bad checks, after each failed to respond to attempts by the victims to collect.

They were identified by Township police as Bernard Sommers of 86 Spruce, who passed a check for $41.69 at Claridge Wine & Liquor Company in the Princeton Shopping Center in April; Benedicta Williams of Plainsboro, who passed two checks for $75 and $50.73 at the Acme Market in the Princeton Shopping Center, also in April, and Jenny T. Mills of Trenton, who passed a check for $110 in June at a small convenience store on Leigh Avenue.

Mills is scheduled to appear in Township Court on August 12; the other two on August 21.

IMPROPER TURN: Louise E. Grafton of 229 Harrison Street confers with Ptl. David Leiggi following an accident just before noon Thursday at the intersection of Harrison and Hartley Avenue. Ms. Grafton was issued a summons for an improper turn, after she turned in front of a convertible driven by John Bernheim, (right) 72 Harriet Drive, who was coming — unexpectedly — north on Harrison from the site of the closed Harrison Street bridge. Neither driver was injured but Ms. Grafton's 1970 sedan had to be towed.

The right rear window of a 1980 VW was shattered Friday while it was parked in the lot of the United Jersey Bank branch on lower Nassau Street. Police said it was interesting to note that several other windows on the four-door sedan were open. They were unable to determine what had been used to break the window.

Four window panes in a Markham Road garage were discovered broken Monday but police have no suspects and no estimate of the damage.

Driver Charged with DWI On His 22nd Birthday

It was an unwelcomed birthday present.

Paul J. Schmidt of Livonia, Michigan was driving on Route 27 near Dodds Lane at 2:05 Sunday morning — his 22nd birthday — when he was stopped by Ptl. John Seeley for erratic driving.

He was given balance tests at the scene and later taken to police headquarters where he underwent more balance and co-ordination tests. He was charged with driving while intoxicated after police recorded a .17 reading on a Breathalyzer test.

Also charged with failure to keep right, Schmidt was later released in $250 bail, pending an August 12 hearing in Township court.

Endowment Is Pledged For Track & Field Coach

Princeton has received a commitment of $800,000 from William M. Weaver Jr., an alumnus in the Class of 1934, to establish a coaching endowment for track and field. The first incumbent will be Lawrence T. Ellis, head coach of men's track and cross-country at Princeton and coach of the 1984 U.S. Olympic track and field team.

The university will name the endowed coaching position in honor of Mr. Weaver, a partner emeritus in the Baltimore investment banking firm of Alex Brown & Sons, and a director of the Allen Group, Inc., IU International Corporation, and Gotaas Larsen Shipping Corporation. A star performer on the track team as an undergraduate, he has been active in alumni affairs and served on the Advisory Council of the Department of Geological and Geophysical Sciences.

Borough Council

ly before the Planning Board, "because that is the proper forum."

To Mr. Olson's assertion that the Borough should have told his client earlier of the move toward the designation of blight, Mayor Barbara Sigmund replied that the Borough had been given reason to hope, at least by Mr. Kahn's wife, that there would be an amicable settlement. "We have tried for two-and-a-half years to reach an amicable settlement," she said.

———

Neighborly Support. Rhetta Hoagland of John Street told Council she knows the area will be congested once the houses are built, "but I'm for it because it gives young blacks and other people the chance to live in Princeton."

Emma Epps of Birch Avenue said that her neighbor had to leave Princeton because her rent had been raised to $600 a month for a four-room apartment. "That's a sin," she said.

Among others who spoke was Borough employee Lea Perone Quinty, whose family, she said, had moved to Lawrenceville many years ago. "I hope this will be an opportunity to get back into town."

The mayor explained that, with the project, the Borough will be able to establish its own criteria as to who gets to purchase the homes. "We will be able to provide housing for people who serve the community."

Before the vote, Mayor Sigmund said she had received a petition from 25 residents of the Prospect/Riverside area urging Council to accept the Planning Board's resolution. Councilwoman Mildred Trotman said there was also a petition signed by many members of the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church expressing support for the project.

Need for Bus Service. In other business, Mayor and Council were presented with a petition signed by 150 Borough and Township residents requesting the return of the loop bus. The names had been collected by Estelle Johnson, a Clay Street resident who has been waging a one-woman campaign for return of bus service.

The John-Witherspoon area, home to many senior citizens and others who do not own private cars, has not been served by public transportation since April, when Princeton Area Transport gave up the loop bus because it was losing $2,000 a month.

The Borough, noted the mayor, has informally suggested to Wayne Johnson of New Jersey Transit that it consider swinging the "P" bus (Princeton-Trenton) down Witherspoon Street. Mr. Johnson said the suggestion would be taken under consideration, she reported.

After a presentation by Township Mayor Gail Firestone, Borough Council voted 3-2 to contribute $30,000 toward funding design changes on the Harrison Street bridge. The Princetons were told by the state Department of Transportation that they would have to come up with $150,000 if they wanted four-foot arches on the bridge instead of the two-foot arches that are planned.

Township Committee has agreed to contribute up to $50,000 for this design change, and Mayor Firestone said Princeton University has pledged $10,000. She said she will ask for additional monies from the County Board of Freeholders.

In the course of the discussion, Councilman Richard Woodbridge drew a chuckle with his suggestion that there be a "Princeton Makes..." sign on the new bridge. Mayor Firestone thought a sign saying, "Princeton Paid for This Bridge," might be appropriate.

Councilman Marvin Reed reported that still more changes might be in store for the Borough's proposed new Rent Registration ordinance.

He said that a recent meeting with members of the Rent Registration Board and several interested citizens reopened the question of whether there should continue to be compensation for unauthorized rent increases.

"It was also felt," said Mr. Reed, that the Board should give up the requirement for health inspections at the time of a rent increase and move toward a more regular schedule of health inspections for all rental units.

It is expected that the revised ordinance will be introduced at the August 7 Borough Council meeting.

Councilman Woodbridge reported on a recent tour of two Borough and Township parks he had made with Don Barr and Jack Roberts of the Joint Recreation Department and Township Comitteeman Thomas Poole.

Mr. Woodbridge said that concern had been expressed at meetings of the Recreation Department on the safety of park equipment. "This is more of a problem today," he noted.

He said the group found a number of swings were not up at Grover Park and that there were holes beneath the ends of the see-saws. "Instead of systematic repair, we have gone to crisis," he said.

An investigation into the possibility of a joint Borough-Township park system is underway, said Mr. Woodbridge. A similar study had been done in 1975 by a committee headed by Barbara Smoyer, he noted. A recommendation for a joint system was made at that time. The councilman believes, however, that the recommendation had a moderately high price tag.

"There was a general consensus after the tour that the operation could be done better," he said. "It's not a crisis situation, but something we want to look at slowly over the fall."

BUT IS IT ART? Who is the person climbing up Princeton's telephone poles and light posts — no doubt in the dead of night — to create these "shoeacapes?" The myatery deepens as new examples of shoe-art are seen popping out throughout the town — and even into West Windsor, we're told. The shoes shown here were discovered on a telephone pole on Hamilton Avenue and Walnut Lane (near the Westminster Choir College entrance) and on a light post on Nassau Street near Princeton Avenue.

cumbent of the William M. Weaver Jr. '34 Track Coaching Endowment, came to Princeton in 1970, he was the first black to head an Ivy League team in any sport. A championship runner at New York University in the 1950's and a member of the NYU Varsity Club Hall of Fame, he served in the Army during the Korean War and earned his master's degree in secondary education at NYU in 1957.

At Princeton he has built the men's track program into one of the Ivy League's strongest. Under his direction, Princeton teams won their first cross-country and indoor track Heptagonal championships in 1975 and 1976 respectively, and in 1981 won their first outdoor Heps since 1938. In 1982 Princeton swept the Heps, taking all three titles. In the same year, the men's track team won its first outdoor IC4A crown in 106 years, while men's cross-country enjoyed its third straight undefeated season and its seventh in eight years. Ellis's outdoor track squads have won four out of the last six Heptagonal outdoor championships.

Mr. Weaver's gift has been credited to A Campaign for Princeton, the university's five-year fund-raising effort which ended June 30 with a total of $410.1 million. The William M. Weaver Jr. '34 Track Coaching Endowment is the third head coaching endowment to be established as a result of A Campaign for Princeton. The Cappon-Green Basketball Coaching Endowment was created in 1984, and the Caldwell Football Coaching Endowment in February 1986.

Physicist To Speak On Talk with Gorbachev

Frank von Hippel, a physicist and professor of public and international affairs at Princeton University, will be the speaker at one of two August 6 events in Princeton commemorating the 41st anniversary of the bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Dr. von Hippel will speak at Lake Carnegie, at the corner of Washington and Faculty Roads, on Wednesday, August 6. This evening gathering, to begin at 7, is designed for families. The Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament, sponsor of the event, invites the public to bring a picnic, enjoy the live music and listen to Dr. von Hippel, who will speak at 7:30.

Dr. von Hippel recently returned from a visit to the Soviet Union, where he had a lengthy meeting with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev. He will talk on "Nuclear Weapons Testing and New Thinking."

Jay Bieman, chair of the Coalition, will also speak. At the evening's conclusion, everyone attending will set candles afloat on Lake Carnegie, as is the custom in Hiroshima to commemorate those killed in the dropping of the world's first atomic bombs.

Earlier on the same day, August 6, the Coalition will hold its third annual silent vigil in Palmer Square at noon. Everyone is invited to attend this one-hour vigil, which has the theme "No More Hiroshimas."

On Saturday, August 9 area residents will travel to Earle Naval Weapons Station in Leonardo, site of a state-wide vigil. A large crowd is expected to gather from noon to 2 for the rally at Earle, which is reported to be a storage site for nuclear weapons. The rally will be followed by a picnic.

Transportation to the rally is being arranged by the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament. For more information, call 924-5022.

Campers of the week were: First grade, Sam Grafton and Marie Walsh; Second grade, Andrea Pemberton-Fowler, Ralph Baker, Kate Abernathy, and Brian Lanchester; Third and Fourth boys Ben and Daniel Solomon; Fifth and Sixth girls Jennifer Lee.

Black Parents Form New Group To Combat Drugs and Loitering

A new group, Black Parents and Citizens of Princeton, will hold its first meeting Friday at 7 p.m. outdoors at Redding Circle.

Formed by Lynetta Murphy and Joanne Rice Parker, the fledgling organization developed out of a letter Mrs. Murphy wrote the Rev. Michael Nabors, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Murpby, concerned about problems such as drugs and loitering, asked Rev. Nabors to preach a sermon on drug abuse at Redding Circle and to "get the community more active in the problems we have." The young minister will speak at the meeting. He will be introduced by William Johnson, principal of John Witherspoon Middle School.

Rev. Nabors said the group has been formed to try to deal with what people in the black community can do to better conditions. "We will speak out against the drug problem present in the community, speak out against loitering."

He said the group will be an ecumenical and a united one, with representatives of all the churches. "There's new black religious leadership in town," he added, "all age 40 and younger. I'm looking forward to working together with the other ministers; we'll be able to unite."

According to Mrs. Parker, who is a teacher's aide at John Witherspoon Middle School, parents are concerned about the problems they see, "but they don't know how to go about solving them."

She said that Rev. Nabors has a way with young people. "He's 26, a pastor, and he makes people see the gifts they have and inspires them to go on and reach certain goals in their lives."

Mrs. Parker added that today it is easy for a child, no matter what the background, to get involved with drugs and have all kinds of problems. "There's peer pressure, and the feeling that if you want to be cool you have to do this."

Rev. Nabors said he hopes the new group will be a sign to the city government that this is a time for change in the black community, change for the better.

"This is not an indictment against the black community," he said. "We have decided to allow the town of Princeton to be what it should be; an extraordinary town. We must all work together to forge a new day, not only for the black community, but for Princeton itself.

He recalled the celebration of Martin Luther King Day at First Baptist Church, and his saying that night that this was a new day for Princeton. "Seven months later, the statement has come true."

Although the new organization has not yet had its first meeting, it has planned several programs for youth. A tutoring program, open to everyone, will begin in September at First Baptist Church. A series of trips is being planned for youngsters in the community, as is a "hot line" for young people who need someone with whom to talk.

University-Blairstown Camp, and WHWH/WPST radio station are planned.

Community Park North has been popular with counselors and campers alike, and they have participated in group nature walks and other activities in this beautiful setting. One event that never got off the ground was the Forbe's Magazine Hot Air Balloon. High winds kept the balloon from giving tethered rides to the children. The camp season extends until August 8.

Special Events for Youth Offered at Public Library

Robert Margolis will tell stories to children ages 3½ to 5 and their parents Thursday, August 7, at 3:30 at the Public Library. Free tickets are now at the children's desk.

The Walt Disney production of Swiss Family Robinson (126 minutes, color) will be shown in the Library's meeting room on Wednesday, August 13, at 3 p.m. The film, based on the novel by Johann Wyss, stars

SUPPORT FOR ALCOHOLISM UNIT: T. Lincoln Kerney, left, trustee of the James Kerney Foundation of Trenton, presents a check for $5,704 to Richard B. Hughes, former New Jersey governor and chairman of the board of the Mercer Council on Alcoholism. Kay McGrath, executive director of the Council, looks on. The money will help purchase office equipment as well as a movie projector and portable display unit to be used in the Council's community and school education programs.

Council Receives Grant To Fight Fetal Alcoholism

The Mercer Council on Alcoholism has received an education grant of $5,000 from the Birth Defects Foundation of the March of Dimes of Central Jersey Chapter.

The grant will provide support to the Mercer County Task Force on Fetal Alcohol Syndrome, which will use the money to help pay for a health educator to conduct education and training programs for health/human service professionals, teachers, teenagers, churches and community groups. The funds will also assist the Task Force in its campaign to have signs posted in establishments that sell alcoholic beverages warning pregnant women not to drink.

The Task Force on Fetal Alcohol Syndrome is made up of health/human service professionals in the Mercer County area. Its primary function is to heighten the public's awareness of the harmful effects of alcohol consumption on babies whose mothers drink during pregnancy.

The Mercer Council on Alcoholism is a private nonprofit organization whose mission is to increase public awareness of alcohol/drug abuse and alcoholism. Its programs in prevention include professional and student education, student and employee assistance services, and public information and referral.

Volunteers Are Sought For PAIRS Program

The rising cost of health care and the increasing complexity of applying for insurance benefits, Medicare and other resources led the Health Care Committee of the Princeton Area Council of Community Services to initiate Program Assistance with Insurance and Resources for Seniors (P.A.I.R.S.) last year.

Volunteers recruitment is now underway for the program, which provides trained volunteers to assist older adults in completing insurance forms and in linking them with resources. Participating volunteers will attend an eight-session training course which will begin on September 17 and will meet each Wednesday through November 5 from 1:30 to 3:30 in the meeting room of the West Windsor Public Library.

Volunteers who complete the training will provide assistance to older adults on the mornings of the second and fourth Fridays at the Princeton Senior Resource Center, or on the first and third Tuesday afternoons at the West Windsor Senior Center. Each volunteer is expected to provide 15 hours of assistance over a six month time period.

Those who are interested in gaining an in-depth understanding of the insurance system and other resources available to senior citizens and in using their knowledge and skills to help older adults are invited.

For further information, call Jacquie Stacey at 924-5865 or 799-6033.

Prize Tomato Contest Now Receiving Entries

The Princeton Recreation Department is sponsoring a Prize Princeton Tomato Contest for all tomatoes grown in Princeton Township or Princeton Borough. Gardeners are encouraged to bring their plumpest tomato to the Recreation Office to be weighed and measured.

The tomato must be home grown in Princeton soil and entered in the contest by September 12. Contestants may enter more than one tomato.

The grand prize will be announced in late September.

For additional information, call the Tomato Hotline at 921-9480.

Volunteer Fire Company To Hold Annual Bar-B-Q

The West Windsor Volunteer Fire Company No. 1 will hold its 18th Annual Chicken Bar-B-Que on Sunday, August 17 from noon to 6 p.m.

There will be an all-you-can-eat feast of barbecued chicken, farm fresh corn-on-the-cob and other goodies.

The event will be held at the West Windsor Firehouse on South Mill Road. Tickets may be purchased at the door; $6.75 for adults and $4 for children 6-12 years old.

Canning, Freezing Class At Terhune Orchards

Terhune Orchards will offer a free canning and freezing class Tuesday at 10.

Pam Mount, co-owner of the apple and peach farm, will demonstrate her methods of canning and freezing peaches, which are now at harvest peak. One participant will win a basket of Terhune Orchards freestone peaches. The class is free, and all are welcome.

To register, call 924-2310.

PCH Plans

Two facing rows of houses make up a court, and a grouping of courts around a landscaped island forms a square. Each square has additional parking separated from the main road encircling the project. In the middle is the Commons, a green park defined by the squares at its perimeter and the focal point of the community.

A continuous system of paths and walks make the entire community accessible by foot without crossing the major road on the periphery. Other meandering trails allow for leisurely walks for jogging and biking.

Access to the perimeter loop road is provided from both Cherry Valley Road and Route 206. The loop road itself provides access to the squares, separating traffic from the residential courts and increasing the buffer with adjacent properties.

Recreation Opportunities. The apartments are located for direct vehicular access from the loop road at the northeast, northwest and southwest corners. Recreation opportunities are available at the two tennis courts and the "tot lots" or bocce courts that may be strung along the path system. The woods and streams at the lower edge of the property will be kept intact and are suitable for picnics.

According to William Dix, project manager, the new configuration is a "social improvement" over the previous design and represents Mr. Geddes' belief in the ability of architecture to foster a sense of community. Mr. Dix points out that two facing rows of houses define a community subgroup, similar to a court "mews" in London, and that court in turn is part of a square and ultimately of the central commons.

He believes this is preferable to the previous scheme, in which the house relates to its own parking and in turn to the loop road, and with no part relating to the whole. The new plan has also benefitted from not having to be designed around "Road B," which the Planning Board at one time thought would be necessary to relieve traffic congestion at that end of the Township. There were strong objections to the road from environmentalists as well as neighbors, and it was subsequently removed.

The Planning Board will have an opportunity to comment informally on the PCH proposal before formal application is made for site plan approval. A setback variance will also be required.

Dinky Station Parking. Also on the Planning Board agenda is a Princeton University application for site plan approval for improvements to the parking area adjacent to the Dinky Station. The University purchased the station buildings and platform, along with the land known as Irish's lot, for $893,700 in October of 1984. The purchase agreement called for the University to provide 150 parking spaces for commuters.

The site plan before the Planning Board on August 5 is the first phase of the University's eventual plan to develop the area as an attractive access to the campus. Specifically, it calls for a new parking area running south from the end of University Place along the railroad tracks to a proposed new entrance and exit on Alexander Road. It also calls for new pedestrian walkways, lighting, curbing and landscaping.

The new parking lot, which comprises an area on which as many as 182 cars park informally now, will contain 198 spaces. Eighteen of these will be reserved for WaWa employees and University personnel who work in the area. Twenty-seven Borough metered spaces now in front of the station will be relocated within the new area.

The remaining 150-153 spaces will be available to commuters who will purchase a parking decal from the University Security Office. According to Eugene McPartland, vice president for facilities, the cost will probably be slightly less than $20 a month, and some proof of regular commutation will be required.

None of the Borough metered parking spaces on the McCarter Theatre side of University Place will be touched, and a few short term metered spaces will also remain right in front of the WaWa Store.

The 3.3-acre site straddles the Borough-Township line. The application requires Planning Board site plan approval, consolidation of two tax lots into one, and conditional use authorization for off-site parking for WaWa employees. The University also must go before Borough Council, because the new pedestrian walkways involve a change in the street right-of-way.

Zoning Change. Also up for discussion will be the proposed change in the OR (office residential) zones which first were made public at a Township Committee meeting on July 21. Under state land use law, the Planning Board must recommend zoning changes for action by the municipal governing body.

The proposed changes, which Church & Dwight, one of the affected commercial property owners has already objected to, would reduce the permitted floor-area-ration (FAR) from 12 to 8 percent in the northern OR 1 portion of the zone where the steep slopes and rocky woods of the ridge make the land less developable and more environmentally sensitive, and from 18 to 10 percent in the southern OR 2 zone. Furthermore, the OR 1 boundary would be extended further south.

FOR HILLIER BY HILLIER: The Hillier Group, now the sixth largest architectural firm in the country, has moved into new headquarters, designed by the firm's founder and president, J. Robert Hillier.

BUSINESS

Hillier Group Has Moved To New Headquarters

In its fourth move in 20 years of architectural practice, The Hillier Group has moved to new headquarters at 500 Alexander Park in West Windsor. The firm has also expanded to include 225 employees, making it the sixth largest architectural firm in the country.

Designed by firm founder and president J. Robert Hillier, the new headquarters building includes 46,000 square feet in a glass-framed structure supported by eight concrete exterior columns. The building also features a 3-story skylit atrium with natural planting, and a glass walled elevator facing the atrium. At each outside corner of the building, firm principals have private offices with exterior balconies. Sun control is achieved by means of bronze-tinted solar shades and reflective mirror glazing on the building's exterior.

The firm now houses all employees under one roof — with five architectural studios, an interior design studio, all support services including computer facilities, marketing, administration, and the firm's construction management subsidiary, Design Interface.

Jewelry Store to Open On Palmer Square West

The Jewel Lady of Palmer Square will open at 67 Palmer Square West in August. Owners, Herb and Selma Chubin of Yardley, have planned a feminine atmosphere using Victorian antiques, lace, velvet and shades of pink in the decor.

The store will feature fashion jewelry at all price levels with an emphasis on one-of-a-kind accessories. Handbags and decorative belts will also be offered.

Mr. Chubin is the parlimentarian for the Princeton Chamber of Commerce and head of its by-laws committee.

Major Laboratory Planned At Forrestal Center

Seimens Corporate Research & Support Inc. has acquired a 23 acre site in Princeton Forrestal Center where the corporation plans to construct the headquarters for its U.S. Research & Technology Laboratories. Plans for the site include the phased construction of up to 250,000 square feet with groundbreaking scheduled for fall 1986.

Currently, the Siemens Research & Technology Laboratories are located at 105 College Road East in the Princeton Forrestal Center where research is focused in the areas of microelectronics, artificial intelligence, robotics and computer software.

The new headquarters will be owned by the Siemens Corporate Research & Support, Inc. The final design for the facility will be a joint effort of Siemens' in-house architects and Bowers Design Associates.

Siemens Corporate Research & Support serves eight Siemens operating companies in the United States. These companies, with more than 20,000 employees, had 1985/1986 sales of close to $2 billion.

Record Sales, Earnings Reported by Squibb

Squibb Corporation reported record sales and earnings for the second quarter and first half of 1986.

Net sales for the second quarter rose 23 percent to $584.8 million from $474.6 million in the second quarter of 1985. Excluding the effects of foreign exchange rate fluctuations, sales would have increased 14 percent for the quarter.

Profit from operations rose 33 percent to $109.2 million in the quarter, compared with $82.1 million a year earlier. Net income increased 29 percent for the quarter to $67.7 million, or $1.25 per share. These results compare with net income of $52.3 million, or 97 cents per share, in the second quarter of 1985.

For the six months, sales rose 23 percent to $1,143.7 million from $927.7 million the previous year. Excluding the effects of foreign exchange rate fluctuations, sales would have increased 16 percent for the six months. Profit from operations increased 31 percent to $196.7 million from $149.6 million in the comparable period of 1985. Net income increased 30 percent to $122.7 million from $94.6 million in 1985. Earnings per share increased 30 percent to $2.27 from $1.75 a year earlier.

A study that measured the effect of three widely used antihypertensive medicines was published. It concluded that patients taking the Squibb product, Capoten, were less likely to withdraw from treatment than those taking the other two drugs and scored more favorably on scales which measured depression, fatigue, sexual problems and work performance.

It was also announced that Squibb intends to spin off its medical systems business as a tax-free dividend to its stockholders. This business is comprised of three operating units: Advanced Technology Laboratories, Inc. (ATL), Spacelabs, Inc. and Squibb Medical Systems International, which will be renamed.

The spin-off is expected to occur in the fourth quarter of 1986, at which time Dennis C. Fill of Princeton, president and chief operating officer of Squibb Corporation, will become chairman and chief executive officer of the new company, Westmark International Incorporated.

Richard M. Furlaud, chairman and chief executive officer, Mr. Fill and Dr. Charles A. Sanders, an executive vice president of Squibb Corporation, will be joined in the office of the chief executive by Jan Leschly, a group vice president who was named an executive vice president.

A new ethical pharmaceutical marketing and sales organization, Princeton Pharmaceutical Products, was also announced. The new organization will have a national sales force of approximately 200 by the fourth quarter of 1986.

Ground was broken for expansion that will triple the capacity of Squibb's pharmaceutical research and development operations in New Brunswick.

Philadelphia Law Firm Will Open Office Here

So to help keep guests safe — and the host solvent — The American Automobile Association and the Mercer Council on Alcoholism have drawn up a list of suggestions to make sure the party ends happily for everybody.

SERVE FOOD THROUGHOUT THE EVENING

Include rich, starchy snack crackers and high-protein foods such as eggs, seafood, meats and cheeses. These reduce the rate at which alcohol is absorbed into the bloodstream. Salted crackers and potato chips may be easy to serve, but they speed up the entry of alcohol into the bloodstream.

INCLUDE NON-ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES

Plan to have plenty of soft drinks and non-alcoholic fruit punch. Serve all the drinks in the same kind of glass. That way, no one can tell whether a person is drinking soda or a martini. Use a jigger to measure.

Many hosts set up a self-service bar, with jiggers, so guests may make less potent drinks when serving themselves.

WATCH FOR OVER-INDULGERS

Try to divert attention from the bar with dancing, games or conversation. If you notice guests who are drinking excessively, engage them in conversation or offer them food to slow down their rate of alcohol consumption. Offer to mix their next drink and go light on the alcohol.

WIND DOWN WITH COFFEE

Plan to serve hot coffee about an hour before the party ends. Coffee won't sober anyone up, but it will allow time for excess alcohol to clear out of the bloodstream.

WHEN IT'S TIME TO SAY GOOD-BYE

A good host or hostess never allows a guest to drive home intoxicated. Arrange for another guest to drive an intoxicated person home. Or call a cab. Or drive your guest home yourself. If there's resistance, keep an intoxicated guest at your house to "sleep it off."

MANDATORY PENALTIES

1st Offense: $250 to $400 fine, 6 mos to 1 yr license suspension, discretionary imprisonment not to exceed 30 days and 12 to 48 hours detainment in Intoxicated Driver Resource Center at a charge of $25 a day.

New Minister, Status For Kingston Church

The Kingston United Methodist Church has resumed its autonomy after many years of having been a circuit ministry with the Hopewell Methodist Church. The Rev. Byron D. Leasure was appointed in June to be part-time pastor of the small parish.

Mr. Leasure, 49 and the father of three, currently resides in Ringoes. He is an ordained Presbyterian minister, having graduated from the Pittsburgh Seminary in 1962. He was pastor of the New Hope Presbyterian Church through 1970.

Mr. Leasure is a devotee of Christian-civic-social activism. He has been a participant in those movements which seek to enhance the role of the Church in grappling with the issues of contemporary society. He believes that "the church is called to be a demonstration of what God intends for all humanity" and worked in the Civil rights and peace movements of the 1960's and 70's.

During the 1970's Mr. Leasure served as an administrator and counselor for drug and alcohol programs in Boston, Bucks County, Philadephia, and Trenton.

He continues to serve in this capacity in Trenton. In the last five years, he has devoted additional time to working with families in crisis and has also been active in the men's movement.

The church is located on Church Street in Kingston. Everyone is cordially invited to attend the morning service on Sundays at 9 a.m.

We Pioneered a Profession

AFTER

In 1967 we displayed photographs of our clientele to introduce Men's Hairstyling and, of course, were quickly discovered by women. A year later, by popular demand, we became the first Unisex Hairstyling Studio in New Jersey. Eventually, the State of New Jersey invited us to assist in formulating a new 'Hair' profession by homogenizing both state boards governing Barbers and Beauticians.

We've spawned over fifty Unisex Salons, successfully owned and operated by former Princetonian employees. We've won awards ... been called 'unique' by the Princeton Historical Fact Book and identified as "pioneers in the hair profession" by the New York Times.

We're professionally consistent ... not pretentious or expensive. Make an appointment and discover why we remain the most popular hairstyling studios in our communities.

Spiritual Leader Here For Lecture on Saturday

Swami Chinmanyananda, an Indian spiritual leader and Vedanta scholar, will speak Saturday at 11:30 at Alexander Hall. The talk is sponsored by the South Asian Students Association at Princeton University.

The term 'Vedanta' refers in the Indian philosophical tradition to the teachings of the Upanishads, philosophical treatises contributing to the theology of ancient Hinduism, elaborating on the earlier Vedas. Swami Chinmayananda, whose name means "He who experiences the bliss of pure intelligence," is recognized as one of the great scholars of Vedanta and one who has not only mastered the scriptures but is also a living embodiment of this knowledge.

He was born into an aristocratic family in Kerala, South India, and began his study of Vedanta as a sceptical journalist with a B.A in science and post-graduate degrees in literature and law. He entered the study of Vedanta under Swami Taporana and after 10 years retired from active secular life to teach and guide.

His topic Saturday is "The Logic of Spirituality."

The Rev. John M. Mulder, president of Louisville Presbyterian Theological Seminary, will preach on the topic, "The Way, the Truth and the Life," Sunday at 10 in the Princeton University Chapel.

Dr. Mulder is an alumnus of Hope College, Mich., Princeton Theological Seminary, and the graduate school of Princeton University. For three years he served with Prof. Arthur Link as assistant editor of the Woodrow Wilson papers and was a member of the department of Church History at the Theological Seminary.

Princeton University Press published his doctoral dissertation under the title, Woodrow Wilson: The Years of Preparation.

LET'S TALK ABOUT

GARDENING GOODIES

with Sam DeTuro
Woodwinds

Did you know that working in your garden burns 220 calories per hour? The President's Council on Physical Fitness considers this a mild activity as ditch digging burns 400 calories per hour.

This year is shaping up to be one of the worst years for ANTHRACNOSE in recent memory. Although it is too late to spray now you might went to seriously consider fertilizing your sycamores to stimulete tree vigor and don't forget watering and pruning will give a helping hand.

Not a big year for insects on your trees and shrubs. Most gardeners will find no necessity for a second foliar sprey.

When you weter your garden remember that you should try to moisten the soil to a six-inch depth, then it will last for a few days.

Padding your plant stakes will help prevent eye accidents. Cut the foot off of stockings or tights below the heel and stuff it with cut up pieces from the remainder of the garment. Pack the pieces firmly or the stake will be felt through the pad. Bind onto the stake with white plastic-coated fabric tape.

Call us at WOODWINDS (924-3500) with all of your tree care questions!!

An Enthusiastic New Operator Is Now in Charge Of the Newly Reopened Kiosk on Palmer Square

"Enjoy it? Of course I eojoy it. What's the alternative?

"I enjoy meeting people. I'm not tired yet and I don't expect to be tired."

A few minutes with Marty Lowell, the 27-year-old, ebullient new operator of the Kiosk newsstand on Palmer Square, and one can't picture him ever being tired, either. He is too busy to be tired.

Those who daily with the effervescent Lowell will be face to face with a born salesman, a master of the one-liner, the unusual response. For example a customer isn't simpty told his bill is $2.50; he's told, "You're looking at $2.50."

Those who cautiously pushed open the door on the first day were greeted by the irrepressible Mr. Lowell, saying, "Yes. yes, it's true. We're open. Come on in."

"What are you looking for? What do you want that we don't have?"

It is all part of Marty's period of experimentation and testing, which is the way he descibed his first week. "It will always be; it's the only way," he said. "I don't know how else to do it."

KIOSK KINGPIN: Marty Lowell who has taken over the operation of the Kiosk newsstand on Palmer Square has discovered it involves a lot more than newspapers and magazines. Here he holds one of his more exotic magazines, FMR, a handsome gulde to art all over the world published periodically in Italy by Franco Maria Ricci.

An illustration of the learning process came early to Marty. He opened July 17 with a representive selection of domestic and foreign magazines, particularly European, including German, French, Italian, British and some Spanish magazines.

To Marty's surprise there has been more interest in German language magazines than anything else. He has or will soon have five different German newspapers and at least 15 different German magazines. "We even have Cosmopolitan in German," he said.

Apparently, said Marty, in explanation, there is a large community of German language speakers in the area. Also, a number of Americans have spent time in Germany so there is a lot of interest in the country.

Second in popularity are French magazines. "We also have a lot of British stuff, continued Marty, who quickly inserted, "I don't want to offend anybody; I'm just listing what people are interested in."

Another surprise has been the interest in car magazines: British, German, Italian and, of course American. Marty reported that he is already out of American car magazines. "I didn't know and you have to be conservative in your first orders," he said.

As for newspapers, Marty reports in addition to all the area papers, he will soon have the Washington Post, and the Sunday edition of the Boston Globe. ("There have been a lot of requests for that.")

There is, adds Marty, a strong interest in the U.S.A. Today paper, particularly the Friday editioo which carries all the listings of sports for the weekend for the entire country. Also available: The Daily Racing Form.

While Marty reports he can't carry every paper, he commented that if 30 people walked in and said they wanted the Hunterdon Country Democrat, then he would certainly request it.

"But you don't always know," he said. "Just because they don't request something, it doesn't mean they don't want it. It's a tricky thing. People don't request the National Inquirer or the Star but they buy it. So I'm experimenting."

Those more hungry for a munchy than the news can choose from candy and soda to nuts, cookies and cigarettes. Marty reports he is also "getting into juices because not everyone wants carbonated products."

For the moment, no tickets of any kind are available at the Kiosk but that is probably only temporary. "I hope to offer them in the future," says Marty, "particularly Suburban Transit tickets."

There is a busy (in the morning and at 5) Suburban bus stop outside his door on Palmer Square and Nassau Street. All day long, says Marty, people come in and ask for change for the bus, which demands the exact change from its riders.

"We're happy to give change as long as they buy something," says Marty, "even if it is only a ten cent item. The amount of change we have to carry is incredible. Of course we want them as customers and, by and large, all the commuters are very nice people."

Information Center. In his first week, Marty has found that the Kiosk is more than a newsstand; it is a source for information.

Everybody comes to us for information, agrees Marty. "They come to us for maps, what hotels to stay at, what restaurants to eat at, where to go on the university campus." Marty smiles and says he can see the day when applications for Princeton University will be dropped off at the Kiosk.

From people relocating he also gets many requests for information about real estate and apartments.

Foreigners visiting Princeton, he adds, expect to find an information booth in the center of town and they just assume the Kiosk is a travel information booth.

All of which leads to a request: Marty invites anyone with brochures or guide books about Princeton to come and talk with him "because I want to have the information."

He reported being asked frequently where the Banana Republic was and he solved that by asking for — and get-

Theater at Its Most Exciting Can Be Enjoyed In the Open Air Production of "Peter Pan"

With a cast of 60 — including multitudes of pirates, Indians, lost boys, assorted dancing flora and fauna of Nevernever Land — plus an orchestra of 25 and an army of backstage crews, the Pennington Players' Peter Pan swooped into Washington Crossing Open Air Theatre last weekend and will run this Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at 8:30 p.m.

Peter Pan, having given his name to everything from a peanut butter to a psychological syndrome characterized by resistance to growing up, has certainly become a part of our collective childhood experience. Written by J.M. Barrie in 1911 as a tale for children and subsequently appearing as a play, a movie and a musical (music by Mark Charlap and Jule Styne and lyrics by Carolyn Leigh, Betty Comden and Adolph Green), the story of Peter Pan still has the power to create magic in the theatre.

Who can fail to feel the excitement in the moments when Peter Pan first appears, flying in through the Darling family nursery? Or when Wendy, John and Michael think those lovely thoughts and find themselves flying too, ready to set out for Nevernever Land? (A five-year-old gentleman in the row in front of me last Thursday night was jumping up and down at this point in the show, trying desparately to get himself airborne and join the characters onstage.) Or when we get the chance to bring Tinker Bell back to life by clapping loudly enough to show that we believe in fairies? Or when the dastardly Captain Hook and his pirates appear, pursued by the hungry crocodile, clock loudly ticking in his stomach? Or whenever Peter Pan and the Lost Boys stubbornly refuse to grow up?

News of The THEATRES

Though this colorful production, almost three hours long including two intermissions, at times is forced by its sheer size to creep along slowly in the style of stealthy pirates rather than flying at the more appropriate speed of Peter Pan and Tinker Bell, the youthful company, energetic and consistently strong under the direction of Richard Loatman, offers a memorable, adventure-filled evening.

In the title role, Jan Moule soars vocally and dramatically, as well as literally! Her voice is powerful and appealing — in "I've Got to Crow," "Nevernever Land," "I'm Flying," and "I Won't Grow Up," she exudes vitality, youth and high spirits, and she handily captivates the audience.

Kim Topper as Wendy contributes a lovely voice and poised presence, first leading the Darling younger brothers (Ed Hughes and Kent Somerville) and then leading the entire boisterous troupe of Lost Boys through the perils of Nevernever Land and back home again.

Bill Agrees as Captain Hook is appropriately sinister and frightening, making his entrance borne on a palanquin by his maties ("Yo, ho. Yo, ho") and dressed to kill in pink, white and black with elegant ruffles.

Tiger Lily (Betty Henninger), who has her best moment in a duet with Peter Pan backed up by the Indians and Lost Boys, leads the large tribe of mostly female Indians who, along with the Darling's maid Liza (Pam Fabri), are clearly the dancers of the company and show their talents in several wildly gyrating Indian dances choreographed by Michael Yousko.

Gravity Overcome.Gravity is a major challenge for any producer of Peter Pan, and making Peter Pan and the three children fly successfully in the vast open spaces of the Washington Crossing stage is an impressive accomplishment engineered by Peter Foy, the creator of the flying for both the Mary Martin and the Sandy Duncan Broadway productions, and implemented here by Dale Conover with seven assistants.

Peter LaBriola's special effects for the whole show are striking and successful, with a lively spinning red-light Tinker Bell, functional bedlights on the walls of the nursery, smoke from the chimney of the Lost Boys' house and a bomb for Captain Hook.

The set, designed by Tharyle Prather, is enormous and fun to look at. Though it becomes unwieldy at times, for the most part it serves the needs of the play.

The Park is a beautiful setting for Nevernever Land, with the trees surrounding the stage

NEW OFFICER FOR PLAYERS: Princeton Community Players has installed new officers. Doug Gildenberg, center, is president of the 53-year old organization. Judy Parrish, left, and Sheila Clark are members of the board. Other new board members are Marie Bograd and Sue Tapper. The Players will offer three plays in the coming season — a comedy, a musical and a drama — to be presented at the Triangle-Broadmead Theater. (Paul Saunders photo) effectively complementing the painted trees and huge toadstools, a handsome pirate ship (lit only when needed) set up to stage right of the mainstage area, and the nursery brightly constructed of colorful blue and white striped walls, a fireplace, French windows for flying in and out of, and a doghouse for Nana, the children's canine nanny. Tech director Jeff Hutchins has done an extraordinary job of coordinating all this.

Problems with this show, some no doubt already alleviated in the polishing and expediting that will have taken place naturally in two performances since opening night, arise almost entirely from the mammoth proportions of the production.

Some cutting is called for to make the show closer to two than three hours in duration. "Nevernever Land Waltz," a balletic interlude, and "Mysterious Lady," a Peter Pan and Captain Hook pas de deux, for example, both seemed to continue longer than necessary and to dissipate too much of the dramatic tension of the show. (The five-year-old sounding board in the row ahead of me restlessly wandered out — pursued by his mother — to get a snack during this long second half of Act II.)

Further encumbrances to the pacing and the clarity of the show were caused primarily by the large numbers of bodies involved in each scene. At times it simply took awhile for the large groups to move onto, off of or across the stage, during which time the level of audience excitement dropped and a confused purposelessness once or twice seemed to set in.

Crowding on the Jolly Roger caused some difficulty in clearly staging the climactic shipboard battle between Peter Pan's forces and Captain Hook's pirate band.

If, however, the enthusiastic opening night audience of over 1000, more than half apparently under 12 years old, was any indication, you will need to arrive early to claim your seat — there is no reserved seating — or bring a picnic supper to the Park, forget about growing up, think lovely thoughts, and fly right into the Open Air Theatre for a magical evening in Nevernever Land.

— Donald Gilpin

On Film: Latin America And the American West

The sixth week of McCarter Theatre's Summer Cinema '86 season at Kresge Auditorium on the Princeton campus will open with a Wednesday through Friday double bill featuring two recent films set in Latin America: Gregory Nava's El Norte and this year's Oscar-winning The Official Story, directed by Luis Puenzo.

Independently made on a shoestring budget by Nava and featuring a totally unknown cast, El Norte is set in Guatemala. When their mother is abducted by soldiers and their father killed, Rosa and Enrique, who are brother and sister, set out for the "promised land" to the north — "el norte."

Moving first to Tijuana and then across the border into California through an abandoned, rat-infested sewer, they reach San Diego, where Enrique finds a job as a busboy, and his sister becomes a domestic. But they soon find that the American Dream, which looks so promising from a distance, is a difficult one to obtain and can easily disintegrate. Enrique is eventually betrayed to the immigration authorities, and his sister comes down with a deadly disease from rat bites suffered in the tunnel crossing.

Using a documentary tone, Nava creates a convincing contrast between the lush hills of poverty-ridden Guatemala and the rich squalor of contemporary Los Angeles. El Norte is a film with the truth of folk art, and one of the rare movies that grants Latin Americans full humanity on the screen.

The Official Story was the surprise hit from Argentina which won this year's Academy Award as the Best Foreign Film. Its setting is Buenos Aires, just returning to life after years of suffocating military rule. Norma Aleandro is Alicia, a woman who comes to suspect that her small, adopted daughter may actually be the child of one of the thousands of young "desaparecidos" — the more than 9,000 "missing ones" who vanished without a trace during the junta's war on alleged subversives. Alicia finds herself compelled to look more carefully into her child's background, and her growing obsession leads to a belated political awakening, during which she comes to know her society as she had never imagined it.

The Official Story portrays a society coming to terms with the truth of its past, as well as presenting a parable about the individuat's relationship to totalitarianism. Norma Aleandro's performance in the central role won her the Best Actress Prize at the Cannes Film Festival this past spring.

The Summer Cinema double bill for Saturday and Sunday will feature "the film that destroyed a movie studio": Michael Cimino's $40 miltion epic disaster Heaven's Gate. Perhaps the single greatest movie disaster in Hollywood history, the failure of Heaven's Gate has been dutifully chronicled in Steven Bach's best-selling book Final Cut, but almost no one has ever seen the film itself, which has almost become a generic term for epic mismanagement, ego run rampant and wanton extravagance.

The story of Cimino's film is the familiar one of cattle ranchers in the Wyoming of the 1890's who hire a mercenary army to destroy a community of immigrant settlers whom they believe have been stealing their cattle. In his version of the Johnson County Wars, Cimino (of Deer Hunter fame) focuses on three characters: Kris Kristofferson as the Harvard-educated Marshall of the county; Christopher Walken as the foreman of the ranchers; and Isabelle Huppert as the French prostitute with whom both men are in love.

While the personal relationships among the three characters remain cloudy and undefined, the immense scale of the American West has rarely been portrayed as more dramatic or threatening, and the film is full of the stunning visual effects that one would expect from the director of The Deer Hunter. Critics called the film "grandiose but inhuman," and Summer Cinema suggests that despite its reputation, Heaven's Gate is well worth the time and effort of serious filmgoers, if only to see what went so drastically wrong. The film will be shown in the 148-minute version recut by Cimino down from its original 220 minutes.

The co-feature with Heoven's Gate will be Robert Altman's McCabe and Mrs. Miller, which has become the favorite cult film of Altman fans since its premiere in 1971. Formally a comedy western, McCabe is Altman's romantic version of frontier society and the film in which he evolved the personal cinematic language that has become his trademark and was to reach its high point three years later in Nashville.

Stage One Productions Offers 'Night, Mother'

Is suicide a viable alternative to an unfulfilled existence? The majority would say no, but playwright Marsha Norman presents an alternate view of the subject in her gripping drama, 'night, Mother.

The 1983 winner of the Pulitzer Prize for drama will receive its first area presentation from Stage One Productions, Inc., at the Rider College Studio Theatre on August 7 to 10, 14 to 17, and 21 to 24. Curtain is at 8:30 p.m. each performance except Sunday, August 24, which is a 2 p.m. matinee. Tickets are $5, $7 and $9, and seats may be reserved in advance by calling Stage One Productions at 683-0444.

The play features June Connerton as Thelma Cates, whose normal daily routine is challenged when her grown daughter, Jessie, declares that she intends to shoot herself that afternoon. Derry Light portrays the determined Jessie. From the moment of Jessie's startling declaration, audiences are gripped by the relentless force of Marsha Norman's dialogue and premise.

Granville Burgess will direct. A graduate of Princeton University, Mr. Burgess has directed for the Quaigh Theatre, Manhattan Theatre Club and Circle in the Square in New York, among other theatre companies. Set and costume design for 'night, Mother is by the design team of Gene Ericson and Bill Hoover, Oui Design.

June Connerton was seen last year as Mother Miriam Ruth in Stage One's highly acclaimed production of Agnes of God. Derry Light, an accomplished singer and actress, is known to area audiences for numerous appearances in musical comedies and light opera. Ms. Light appears as a guest artist with Stage One, according to provisions of Actors' Equity Association.

For reservations and further information, call the Stage One box office at 683-0444.

Seuss Book a Play At Hopewell Theater

"Green Eggs and Ham," the Dr. Seuss children's story, will be presented at the Off-Broadstreet Theatre in Hopewell Thursday and Friday at 10 as the second production in the summer children's classic series.

Although convinced he doesn't like green eggs and ham, the story book character, Sam, eventually tries some and to his surprise discovers the joy of green eggs and ham.

Directed by Matthew Wright of Princeton, the summer miniseries is presented in an improvisational fashion encouraging audience response from the children.

Admission is $3.50 with group rates available. The theatre is located at 5 South Greenwood Avenue in Hopewell. Call 466-2766 for reservations or more information.

Museum Performance Set for Ballet Students

More than 25 members of the Princeton Ballet II will showcase the results of their summer workshops and creative choreography classes on Friday at 7:30 in the New Jersey State Museum Auditorium. Admission is free.

Selected participants will perform a program of classical and contemporary dance pieces and premier short original pieces choreographed by the advanced students.

Ballet II is the pre-professional training company of Princeton Ballet. It serves as a link in the ballet training process for which the company is known. The company carries its own performance schedule and joins the professional Princeton Ballet Company in large-scale productions.

Performances Planned By Theatre Workshop

The Hun School's Theatre Workshop will present Kurt Vonnegut Jr.'s Welcome to the Monkey House on Thursday and Friday at 8 in the auditorium. Tickets are available at the door.

The play is directed by Hun faculty member Craig Evans and performed by student members of The Hun school Summer Theatre Program. The cast includes Jennifer Alexander, Chris Anrig, Kate Bundy, Amy Cronise, Beth Cronise, Katie Heider, Ned Higgins, Andrew Kaplan, Paul Kaplan, Robert Kerr, Monica Khanna, Debi Kidder, Susan Kidder, Mark Maitlen, Kate Monahan, Michael Otrok, David Russo and Lee Von Seldeneck.

'Camelot' Is Playing At New Hope Playhouse

The romantic adventures of King Arthur and his knights are the subject of Camelot, the musical by Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe now playing at the Bucks County Playhouse.

Music from Baroque to Bandstand to Jazz Entertains Audience in Solid Brass Concert

Medieval ceremonial music, opera excerpts, jazz standards, pieces for brass band — these are examples of the vast stylistic variety which was brought to the stage of Alexander Hall by Solid Brass. The concert presented Wednesday evening (July 23) by this ensemble of native New Jerseyans was the third event of this summer's series presented free to the public by the Princeton University Outdoor Chamber Concerts. The threat of rain and the sudden change of location didn't hamper the turn-out for this concert; nearly every seat in both the balcony and the orchestra was occupied.

Propelled by quick pacing and lively commentary, the ensemble used its wide complement of brass instruments in combinations of quartets, quintets, octets as well as the full 10-piece entourage. Instrumentation consisted of four trumpets, four trombones, horn, tuba, and a variety of doublings including flugelhorn and percussion. The fresh acoustics of the auditorium were favorable to the blend of the instruments, and effective antiphonal use was made of the off-stage areas.

Between most of the selections, informative and often humorous commentary was given, usually by the group's leader, trombonist Carl Della Peruti. This added immeasurably to the enjoyment of the evening's music.

In presenting music of such diversity one runs the risk of making the program too fragmented stylistically, especially when pairing the pomp and majesty of The Entrance of the King from Wagner's Lohengrin (arranged by trumpeter Doug Haislip) with Massa's in the Cold Ground in an arrangement dating from the Civil War era. How much more disparate can programming get and still hang together as a complementary unit? Perhaps it was the performers' infectious enthusiasm in playing good music which made it work, or the excitement and uncertainty of playing in an untried concert hall, or simply the fact that they played so very well. Whatever the reason, the ensemble successfully riveted the audience's collective attention for nearly two hours.

Ensembles which thrive on music which must be arranged for a given instrumentation often dredge up interesting and sometimes dubious pieces of music. One such set of pieces was a collection called the American Brass Band Journal. This trio of tunes included the aforementioned Massa, the Prima Danna Waltz, and Hail Columbia in arrangements which reminded this listener of the community bands which flourished in the late 19th century. The ensemble's performance of these delightful works captured their simplicity and fortitude without becoming garish or condescending in approach.

Another musicological oddity was Schumann's Sketch in D-flat. This diminutive novelty piece was one which might better have been left in the dusty archives of some music library. Though the ensemble performed it in fine style, it didn't have much to offer in regard to musical substance. Perhaps Schumann had good reason for locking the score away and forgetting about it.

Harmonious Blend. Three works of the early Baroque period by Speer, G. Gabrieli and S. Scheidt provided breadth to the concert, and gave the ensemble ample opportunities to demonstrate its extraordinarily harmonious blend. Gabrieli's Sonata pian e forte received a splendid reading filled with dynamic and timbral contrasts. The mellowness of the trombones alternated in subtly shifting patterns with the brilliance of the trumpet quartet. The trumpets also did some sparkling imitative work in the Canzon by Scheldt.

The arrangements of three jazz standards provided an interesting diversion in this concert of diversities. Stardust was marked by rich harmonies and smooth voicings, although the horn soloist had a tendency to flare her tone on each note, marring the flow of Hoagie Carmichael's splendid melody. Arthur Frackenpohl's arrangement of Eubie Blake's tune, Chevy Chase, was given a reserved reading which captured the traditional spirit of ragtime, while Duke Ellington's I'm Just a Lucky So-and-So danced brightly in Mr. Della Peruti's marvelous setting.

A rousing response from the audience prompted an encore — a bluesie, rocking piece by Chris Hazell called Kracken.

To all qualified choral singers in the Princeton area:

In the late 40's, I prepared a chorus for Pierre Monteux and the San Francisco Symphony for performances of the Berlioz "Requiem." I vowed at the time that I would conduct this great work one day myself, and I do believe that the time has come!

On the weekend of April 10-12, 1987, I intend to conduct the Berlioz in two performances. The chorus will be made up of the combined Princeton University Glee Club and Chapel Choir. The orchestra, with its sumptuous complement of brass and timpani, will be gathered from the University and from the area. The concerts will take place in Richardson Auditorium.

The Glee Club and Choir will total about 100 voices; about 50 more voices are needed to secure adequate balance with the orchestra. Therefore, I am publishing this invitation to audition for the additional choral complement, and putting it in TOWN TOPICS in the middle of the summer, so that interested Princeton residents will have first chance.

The additional chorus will rehearse no more than once a week during the major part of the preparation, and will combine with the Glee Club and Chapel Choir as we get closer to the concerts. Rehearsals will be arranged so that there is no, or minimal, conflict with the rehearsal schedules of choruses and choir to which individual members may already belong. This invitation is intended as a reasonable and pleasant solution to the performance problems represented by a specific, great work, NOT as the first step in the organization of a new community chorus.

If you are interested, and if you are an experienced soprano, alto, tenor or bass, please phone Mrs. Custis Clark at 452-3048 weekday mornings between 9 a.m. and noon through August 8. She will take down information and assign you an audition time, if possible between August 15 and 30, later if necessary. Many thanks.

Sincerely yours,

Walter Nollner
Professor of Music
Director of Music in the University Chapel

String Quartet to Play Final Concert in Series

The Manhattan String Quartet will perform in the fifth and final concert of the outdoor chamber series on Monday at 8. The concert will take place in the courtyard of the Graduate College, unless rain or threatening conditions force a relocation to Richardson Auditorium. For exact location, call 452-5977 after 4 p.m. for a recorded announcement.

The program will consist of Mendelssohn, Quartet in D Major, Opus 44, No. 1; Prokofieff, Quartet No. 2, Op. 92; and Beethoven, Quartet in E Minor, Op 59, No. 2.

The Manhattan String Quartet, now in its second decade as an established ensemble, is something of a family affair. First violinist Eric Lewis is husband to cellist Judith Glyde and brother to second violinist Roy Lewis. Violist John Dexter is the non-family member of the Quartet.

Since 1981 the group has been quartet-in-residence at Music Mountain, a Connecticut-based festival dedicated to the art of chamber music. The Quartet has also been in residence at Interlochen national Music Camp in Michigan, the Corfu Festival in Greece and at a national arts institute in Mexico. It has performed across the United States, Mexico and Europe.

Admission is free, and parking is off Springdale Road.

Cheater Jones to Play Re-Scheduled Concert

Cheater Jones, a rhythm and blues-influenced rock and roll band will perform Thursday, August 7 at 7:30 in Community Park North. The group's original concert on July 17 was rained out.

PREPARING THE EXHIBIT: Jim Colavita displays some of the pieces that make up his sculpture, "God, Air Over the Field, Fire, the Water Below," which will be on exhibit at Ellerslie, the Trenton City Museum, from August 2-31.

ART

Focus Is on Byzantium In Show at Firestone

A special exhibition entitled "Byzantium at Princeton" will open Friday in Firestone Library. It will run through October 26.

The exhibition has been planned by Prof. Slobodan Curcic of the Department of Art and Archaeology, Princeton University, and Prof. Archer St. Clair Harvey of the Department of Art History, Rutgers University, to mark the International Byzantine Congress to be held in Washington, D.C., August 3-8.

On display will be more than 150 objects in various media from the fourth through the 17th century A.D., which are in large part unpublished and are intended to acquaint a wider audience with the range and richness of holdings in Early Christian and Byzantine art at Princeton University.

A fully illustrated catalog will accompany the exhibition.

Exhibits

Jim Colavita's newest sculpture will be exhibited at the Trenton City Museum at Ellarslie Mansion from August 2 through 31. An opening reception will be held from 7 to 9 p.m..

While most gallery exhibitions consist of several works, this installation forms a single, large piece from various parts. It is titled "God, Air Over the Field, Fire, the Water Below." In a collaboration between Mr. Colavita and award-winning poet, David Keller, the base of the sculpture is engraved with a runic inscription, a translation of a poem written by Keller.

Mr. Colavita, a resident of Hopewell, is an assistant professor of ceramics and sculpture at Mercer County Community College. He holds a Master's of Fine Arts from Brooklyn College and has exhibited his work at the New Jersey State Museum and the Morris Museum in Morristown, and he was awarded a grant for sculpture in 1982 by the New Jersey State Council on the Arts.

Mr. Keller also received a grant from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts and in 1986 was presented with an "Artistic Merit in Poetry Award," the highest honor the council bestows. He has been published in New England Review and Prairie Schooner.

Princeton Post 76 Knocks Off Hightstown, Hamilton, Will Begin Play in State Legion Tournament Saturday

What a finishing week it was for the Princeton Post 76 team in the Mercer County American Legion Race.

It was punctuated by success, defeat and finally success again on Monday night when Post 76 defeated Hamilton Post 31, 7-4, in the winners' bracket of the league playoff to advance to the American Legion state tournament. It was the fifth meeting between the two evenly matched teams with Post 76 winning the first and last and Hamilton sweeping the middle three.

In winning, Post 76 (23-7) will begin state tournament play on Saturday.

By winning the playoff for the championship of the Mercer County Legion race, Bordentown earned the right to begin state tournament play at Mercer County Park. This year the runner-up in the Mercer County playoffs will also advance to the state tournament.

SEXTON BEATS TAG AT HOME: Dan Sexton, Princeton Post 76 second baseman, beats tag of Hightstown catcher Ed Horowitz to score second run in four-run rally in seventh-inning. He and Dave Arendas were chased home by a Tim Rumer double. Sexton had four hits in 7-1 victory that sent Post 76 to the winners' bracket in the Mercer County American Legion League playoffs for second and third place. (W.L. Bill Allen Photo)

That third team will be decided this week. Hamilton was scheduled to oppose Mitchell-Davis in the losers' bracket this week and the winner will oppose Post 76 on Wednesday. At stake for Post 76 is how close to home it will be for its opening state tournament game. The winner will play in Middlesex County while the loser will have to travel farther to Lyndhurst.

In addition, for the first time, New Jersey will send two teams to the American Legion Regionals. New York previously had two teams but the Empire State was overtaken by New Jersey in the number of teams involved in Legion play with 117.

The new destination for the N.J. state Legion runner-up will be New Bedford, Ma. As in the past, the N.J. Legion champion will advance to the Mid-Atlantic Region No. 2 tourney in Boyerstown, Pa.

New Jersey thus becomes one of five states in the country allowed to send two teams to compete in the Legion Regionals. The others are Pennsylvania, California, Minnesota and Illinois.

Revenge Time. For Post 76 manager Larry Bender and his Princeton team, Monday was a time for paying past debts. They owed the Carellas one because it was Hamilton that defeated Post 76 on the last day of regular season play to force a three-way playoff for the league title. And it was the same Hamilton team the very next day that eliminated Post 76 from the playoffs for first place.

In Monday's game, Post 76 broke a 2-2 tie in the sixth by plating three runs, including what was to be the winning run. With two outs, Chuck McCall crossed up the Carella infield with a surprise bunt. Dave Arendas reached base on an error, McCall taking third on the miscue. McCall then scored the go-ahead run when losing pitcher Steve Bagley delivered a wild pitch.

Then after Danny Sexton surprised Hamilton with another bunt to put runners on the corners, Tim Rumer, who had pitched Post 76 into the winners bracket the day before, followed with a two-run triple.

Hamilton cut the margin to 5-4 when it scored two unearned runs in the seventh without a hit but Post 76 got both back in the eighth to preserve the win. Jay Jordan, who pitched the first six innings for Princeton, got the win. Arendas pitched the next two and Mike Walker took over in the ninth.

With the win it was one for two for Bender in goals he had set at the start of the season. The first, winning the league championship, has eluded him. The second, advancing to the state tournament, is his. His third? Winning the state legion crown.

In Winners' Bracket. Post 76 had advanced to the winners' bracket in the four-team, double elimination playoff Sunday with a 7-1 victory over Hightstown in the 90 degree heat and humidity at Moody Park.

Tim Rumer, named the League's Pitcher of the Year, showed once again why he has been instrumental in Post 76's success this year. Rumer allowed only one run in the 6⅔ innings he worked to pick up his eighth win in nine decisions. At the plate, he belted two doubles and drove in a pair of runs.

Post 76 and Rumer enjoyed a tenuous 1-0 lead after the first five innings, as Princeton had scored a lone run in the first off a single by 16-year-old second baseman Dan Sexton, who finished the game with four hits, and a double by Darren Villani.

Post 76 made it 3-0 in the sixth to loosen the pressure by a notch. Sexton led off with one of his two bunt singles, Rumer doubled and after Villani grounded out and catcher Craig Ender fanned, Mike Walker walked to load the bases. Bender decided to stay with John Clarkson, his 16-year-old right fielder. Clarkson repaid Bender's faith by lashing a 3-2 pitch to center for a two-run single. "It was the key hit of the game," said Bender later.

Rumer began to tire in the seventh. With two down, he yielded a double to Jamie Vogel, who scampered to third on Joe Contiliano's single. When Ed Horowitz followed with another double to put Hightstown on the scoreboard, Bender motioned Walker, his top reliever, to the mound. Walker fanned Loren Liper on four pitches to end the threat. Dave Sisson pitched the final two innings of scoreless ball for the victors.

Post 76, meanwhile, had broken the game open with four runs in the seventh.

Here's an oddity ... Pro baseball and college football – by coincidence – BOTH started in EXACTLY the same year ... The first pro baseball team – the Cincinnati Reds – started playing in 1869 and, oddly, the first college football game in history, Princeton vs. Rutgers, was also played in 1869.

Of all the 26 current big league baseball teams, only 3 have never made the playoffs at the end of any season, since the division playoffs were established in the majors in 1969 ... The 3 teams that have never made the playoffs are the Cleveland Indians, Texas Rangers and Seattle Mariners.

Who was the only major league baseball player who always wore the name of his hometown on the back of his uniform throughout his big league career? ... He was pitcher Bill Voiselle ... With one out, Arendas and Sexton singled and Rumer doubled off the right field fence, sending both home and chasing starter Jim Contiliano. Villani greeted his replacement, Lee Hutchinson, with an RBI double and afer Ender walked, Walker doubled home the fourth run.

In all, Post 76 banged out 14 hits, including Sexton's four and two each by left fielder Jay Jordan, Villani and Rumer.

Hits Are Scarce. On Thursday, playing its third game in as many days, Post 76 was held to three hits and bowed to Hamilton Post 31, 5-4. With the loss, Princeton failed in its bid to meet Bordentown for the league championship. Hamilton also failed when it lost a three-hit, 2-1 decision the next day to Bordentown in the title game. All three, Post 76, Hamilton and Bordentown had ended the regular season in a three-way tie with 21-6 records. It marked the third year in a row that the league had ended in a tie and the second straight that three teams were involved.

Two Post 76 Players Earn Legion Post-Season Honors

Tim Rumer and Dave Arendas, two season-long standouts on the Princeton Post 76 American Legion team, have been singled out for post-season hooors.

The 16-year-old Rumer was named the league's Pitcher of the Year. The Princeton High senior compiled a 7-1 regular season record which included two back-to-back no-hitters, one a five-inning victory. Over 63⅓ innings, the southpaw allowed 24 hits and 23 runs of which 16 were earned. He struck out a league-high 65 batters and walked 48. He had an ERA of 2.56.

A day after the announcement was made, Rumer increased his record to 8-1 as he pitched and batted Post 76 to a 7-1 victory over Hightstown in the first-round of the league playoffs.

Arendas, the veteran Post 76 shortstop and a standout player at West Windsor High, was named the league's Most Valuable Player. Like Rumer, the 18-year-old Arendas was a player-pitcher, excelling in both departments.

As a batter he compiled a .304 average on 24 hits in 79 at bats, including two doubles, a triple and home run. He drove in 18 runs and stole 18 bases.

In 44⅓ innings on the mound, Arendas compiled a 4-2 record and a 2.64 ERA. He fanned 37, walked 24, and yielded 34 hits. Of the 16 runs he allowed, 13 were earned.

"We didn't get the hits when we needed them," agreed Bender after the loss to Hamilton. His team stranded eight runners.

In the fifth, Hamilton combined five hits off Post 76 hurler Billy Byrne to take a 5-1 lead. Princeton had tied the score at 1 in the third when Arendas was hit by a pitch, stole second and came home on Sexton's single — the first hit allowed by Craig Ruyak.

Post 76 nibbled away at Carella's lead, however, scoring two runs in the sixth without a hit and another in the seventh on walks to Sisson and Sexton and Rumer's RBI single. Reliever Al Usarzewicz fanned Walker, however, to end the inning and blanked Princeton the final two frames.

Rumer 3-Hitter. Post 76 had begun the week with a 5-1 victory over Hightstown, a key win which guaranteed the Princeton club a chance the next day of winning the league title outright.

Pitching with just three days rest, Rumer allowed three hits, struck out five and walked five in picking up the win. Two of those hits came in the first inning on a leadoff single by Ed Horowitz and an infield hit by Al Meyers for the losers' lone run.

Post 76 scored a pair of runs in the third on two walks, Rumer's single to load the bases and RBI sacrifice flies by Ender and Walker. It added a single run in the fifth and two more insurance runs in the seventh. Villani had three of Princeton's eight hits and Ender connected for a double. Steve Wright (4-2) was the losing pitcher.

The win set up a chance for Post 76 to win it all the next day against Hamilton. Hamilton won the game, 5-1, in ten innings.

By the end of nine innings the score in the showdown was knotted, each team having scored an unearned run. Hamilton touched Arendas for a run in the second off consecutive errors at shortstop and Post 76 came back in the third to tie it. Sexton singled, advanced on a wild pitch and came home from second on another wild pitch.

Approaching darkness became a factor. Sexton was ejected from the game in the teoth when he complained (too loudly to plate umpire Ron Cathel) that he couldn't see the ball.

In the top of the tenth, Hamilton had pushed across four runs. After a leadoff single and bunt, Kevin Klopfer singled home the winning run. Two more walks, a sacrifice fly and a two-run single by Kurt Stemhagen produced three more runs.

Todd Ruyak, who relieved Hamilton starter Steve Bagley in the ninth with a runner on second and one out, got the win. He struck out two Post 76 batters in the ninth to send it into extra innings.

Arendas (4-2) was tagged with the loss. "They played well and we played so-so," commented Bender after the game.

Princeton Team Is Third In International Softball

The Princeton-based IPC men's softball team, last year's winner of the A division in the Mercer County Minor League, has moved up this season to the County's International League, comprised of two divisions of nine teams each.

Currrently in third place with an 18-6 record, IPC has a core of veteran players and coaches including manager John Wheeler, Don Pierre, John Leiggi, Bob Smyth, Mike Fitzpatrick and Ron Hibbs. IPC's infielders are Wheeler, Bob Ogrodnick, Joe Discavage, Greg Hamer, Hibbs and David Leiggi. Outfielders are John Leiggi, Tom Breithaupt, Kevin Fitzpatrick, Scott Cook and recent additions Gib Johnson and Juergen Steuppel.

Fitzpatrick and Pierre handle the pitching while Rob Leiggi, Smyth and Albert Leiggi serve as utility players.

In last week's action, in a well-played, extra-inning contest, IPC knocked off S. Festa, 3-2. The losers had already clinched the B division title and at 20-3 owned the league's best record.

Steuppel was a perfect 4-for-4 at the plate as was Ogrodnick, with three hits in three at bats. Breithaupt drove in the winning run and Fitzpatrick got the win, yielding just six hits. The defense was sparked by two double plays and by the play of catcher Dave Leiggi.

Twn nights later, IPC cinched second place and thus an automatic bye in the first round of the playoffs by coming from behind to edge CWA, 5-4.

Trailing by three runs going into the bottom of the last inning, IPC connected for seven hits and four runs to grab the win. John Leiggi, who had three hits, drove in the winning run, and Discavage was 2-for-3. Pierre was the winning pitcher.

Ficarro's Regains Lead In Women's 'A' League

Steve Ficarro's Auto Body, the Princeton-based women's softball team, is back in first place in the Mercer County Women's A League, a spot it last held in mid-May.

Two victories, 9-1 over Zip's Steak House and 12-2 over Keystone Fabricating, coupled with two losses for former league-leader 3 Seasons combined to give Ficarro's a one-game lead. Both teams have four games left to play.

Ficarro's will next oppose Dot's Girls on Thursday at 7:30 p.m. on Field 2 at Mercer County Park and will play Bryne Builders on Tuesday at 8:30 on Field 4.

In the win over Zip's, Ficarro's unleashed a 16-hit attack paced by Grace Durland's 3-for-4 performance. Clare Baxter, Dee Vertucci, Dot Krumpfer and winning pitcher Louann Slocum-Robidoux all had two hits apiece.

Against Keystone, Donna Nicholson and Dee Discavage each rapped three hits, Discavage including a three-run homer in her barrage. Janet Swick added a triple and two RBIs while Melanie Nosal and Sandi Hibbs each had pinch-hit singles. Baxter was the winning pitcher.

Kiosk

ting — a map from the popular new store locating its site on Palmer Square.

"We are the connection for the whole area. The hub," said Marty. "It's a fun position to be in but I'm frustrated because I don't know everything yet."

By the way, he added parenthetically, the Kiosk sells the best postcards in town.

He then recalled a wonderful experience he had the other day. He prefaced it by reporting that in April he and his wife had traveled in Japan. Because they didn't speak any Japanese, they were armed with travel aids concerning taxis, hotels, restaurants, etc.

"A woman walked in on Monday," continued Marty, who was from Japan. She had just gotten off the bus and she handed me a travel card with all the names of local hotels in Japanese."

As she tried to pronounce them phonetically, Marty recalled, "it was a mirror of the situation I had been in in Japan." Fortunately, he said, he was able to put her in touch with the right people.

A couple from Australia wanted to know where the local bed and breakfast homes were. A check with a guide book from the family book store (his wife's family, he said, owns the Titles Unlimited book stores) did not reveal any. Perhaps someone in town can add this to the store of useful information he is building.

Visitors to the newly-opened Kiosk will notice that it is better organized and more open. Marty reports that although he plans to install new fixtures and new racks for merchandise he intends to maintain the present open feeling rather than a crowded atmosphere. "People like to walk in and be able to see things," he said.

And again, the reaction from people is varied. Some still don't know we are here, he says. Some were not aware the kiosk was even closed. Some walk in and say the place is much bigger and want to know if it has been enlarged, while others insist that it looks smaller.

Marty can't explain it but he can say with authority that most think the Kiosk is bigger.

First Time. Although he has run other operations, Marty says this is the first time he has run an operation like the Kiosk. He has a five-year lease from the Collins Corporation. "Come hell or high water, we'll be here," he smiles.

Previously, he had worked for about a year and a half doing various jobs in the family-run bookstores and before that used to manufacture kites. "I still do quite a bit with kites but I don't have the time I would like," he says. One of the magazines he carries is Kite Line, a quarterly journal on international kiting.

He has a degree in plant science in horticulture and agronomy from Cook College on the Rutgers campus.

One last phase included in his learn-as-you-go process is the number of hours the Kiosk is open. "I figure the way you find out if people want you to be opeo is to be open," he says. "I'll never find out if I should be open till 11 unless I stay open to 11."

Presently, the Kiosk is open from 7 a.m. to 10 Monday through Wednesday; from 7 till 11 on Thursday and from 7 till midnight on Friday and Saturdays; Sundays 7 to 9. Those hours may change, he says, especially when the university students return and the dynamics of the town change again.

Marty is being assisted by John Counts, a retired Princeton librarian. "He's a wonderful man; I'm very fortunate to have made connection with him," said Marty.

"He knows all the kids — only the kids he knows are now in their 30s. He's a great guy."
